College Women to Meet in Tulsa

A. A. U. W. Members From Five States Will Convene April 14-16.

College women from the five states: Arkansas, Kansas, Missouri, Texas and Oklahoma, will gather in Tulsa, Oklahoma, April 14-16, when the southwest Central Section of the American Association of University Women holds its convention with the Tulsa branch as hostess. There are 84 branches in the section. State presidents from the five states and delegates from each branch, beside many other state officers and committee chairmen will attend.

Miss Olive DeLuce, member of the Missouri state board and Mrs. Marshall E. Ford, chairman, for Missouri of the Million Dollar Fellowship Committee, have received their credentials as members of the convention; Dr. Anna Painter, president of the Maryville branch, has been empowered to select two delegates to represent this branch.

National Officers to Attend.
Dr. Mary E. Woolley, president of the national association who is at present in Geneva as a delegate from the United States to the Disarmament Conference, will be present if she reaches this country in time. All of the other national officers and board members will be in Tulsa for the convention.

There are now 40,000 members of the A. A. U. W. in the United States; 46 states have state organizations and there are 800 branches. National headquarters of A. A. U. W. are in Washington where the association has a club house open to all members.

The United States is divided geographically into nine sections for purposes of administration. Each section is under a director; Miss Grace Wilkie of the University of Wichita, Kan., is now the director of the Southwest Central section. Mrs. A. Ross Hill of Kansas City, Mo., is the national treasurer.

International Relations Dinner.
One of the most important events at the convention will be the International Relations dinner the evening of April 15, when Dr. Woolley, Dr. Aurelia Reinhardt, former national president, and Ben Cherrington who has recently returned from Geneva, will be the speakers.

The Friday luncheon will be devoted to Fellowship with Mrs. F. G. Atkinson of Minneapolis, chairman of the national committee of the Million Dollar Fellowship Fund the main speaker. Miss Virginia Henderson, recipient of the first award of the Southwest Central sectional fellowship, will also speak.

Reports of the state chairmen of fellowships will be given. The Southwest Central Section had collected $8,000 of its $40,000 pledge for a fellowship in 1931. The Missouri state chairman has been carrying on a vigorous campaign this year to get each branch in the state to contribute to the fund, which on April 1, 1932 passed the $10,000 mark.

Miss Minnie B. James, fellowship chairman of the Maryville branch raised Maryville's contribution by means of a dinner at the home of Mrs. Charles T. Bell, March 22.

Missouri Division to Meet.
The Twelfth Annual Convention of the Missouri division of the A. A. U. W. will be held in Tulsa in conjunction with the sectional convention. The Missouri board will meet at ten o'clock Thursday morning and the state convention will be held the afternoon of April 15. Mrs. David Hoover of Joplin, president of the state organization will preside.

The convention closes with the college luncheon on Saturday when the delegates will be seated according to the college attended. The Tulsa branch announces that 84 colleges are represented in its membership and that a table will be provided for each college. Members of the Maryville branch come from 32 colleges reaching from the Pacific coast to England and France.

College Musicians

Present Program at Myrtle Tree School

A group from the College gave a community program at the Myrtle Tree School northeast of Maryville, last Friday evening.

The program consisted of numbers by ten members of the College orchestra, under the direction of H. O. Hickernell, a reading by Barney Thompson, clarinet solo by William Person, violin solo by Margaret Knox and a bass solo by Harvey Croy.

Miss Clara White, a graduate of the College and teacher of the school, introduced the entertainers, and the orchestra selections were announced by Miss Knox. Others in the orchestra were: Miss Ruth Morrie of the faculty of the conservatory of music, violin; Wilma Lewis, violin; Sylvia Glouser, violin; Betty Hickernell, French horn; LaVerna Wells, trumpet; Carl Blackwelder, trumpet; and Mrs. Marion Gann Vail, piano. Mr. Hickernell played trombone in the orchestra. After the program refreshments were served.

Are We Thinkers?

By Wallace Culver

In this column last time the writer brought out the question of whether or not any government has the right to send its young men out on the fields of battle to fight and kill for, in many cases, no reason at all, and also that these same young men are deluded as to the real reason, if any, for the conflict. The following statements written about the war danger existing in the Far East by students from various towns in Oklahoma, bear evidence to the fact that the present generation is not going to be fooled as easily as was the preceding generation.

Orville Dee, Enid: "Go to war? Not if I can help it! If you must go, leave me behind. I'm going to stay right here at home, make all the money I can, take your job and your girl and let you be a blooming hero."

Dick Dudley, Woodward: "The people have not forgotten the lesson they learned in the last great war, and it is evident that they do not care to be dragged into another war simply because statesmanship demands it."

Ollibal Collins, Amorita: "American youth, whom war will most affect is not blind. Hoodwinking, patriotic songs, uniforms, and cannon fire hold no lure. Let the youth vote as to whether or not America fights, and commercialism and jingoistic press will have no war-shouting audience."

Jungliste Traugbber, Norman: "The Junglists will not find it so easy to arouse the fighting spirit this time. Out in Denver, where the Veterans' hospital takes care of about fifteen thousand patients, there is a death list of six or seven everyday during the spring and fall, the seasons most fatal to these who have been gassed. The hospitals which receive patients suffering from shell shock do not expect any decreases in their entries for another ten years."

Officers of Mask and Gavel Club Announced

The members of the Council of the new Mask and Gavel Club have been recently announced and are the following: President, Cecile Gist; vice-president, Buford Clark; secretary-treasurer, Marvin Shamberger; program chairman, Jerome Smith; representative of Forensics on the program committee, Ernest Stalling; representative for Dramatics on the program committee, Ellanor Sewell; inter-collegiate secretary, Lowell Gault; extension secretary, Donald Robey; social secretary, Maxine Wood and H. S. speech activities, Grace Tinnell.

Interesting meetings and programs, to which everyone is invited are held on Thursday at 11 o'clock each week.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch for March 29, carried an interesting story about Orville B. Hedges, a graduate of the College, now teaching and coaching at Jackson, Mo. The story tells of his excellent record as a student and athlete while at the College and of his successes in the field.

Maynard Pettigrew, superintendent of schools at Darlington and Lewis Wallace, principal of the Darlington schools were at the College last Saturday. Both men are graduates of the college.

A new book, "Lincoln The Unknown," written by Dale Carnegie, now of 27 Wendover Road, Forest Hills, New York City, has just been presented to President Lamkin, by the author.

The following interesting note to President Lamkin, has been written in the front of the book:

"Dear President Lamkin: The author of this book was born on a farm near Maryville, and some of the happiest memories of his life cluster about Maryville, and the 102, and Bedison and Rose Hill school. So he takes real pleasure in sending a copy to you as the educational leader of Northwest Missouri."

I hope you will enjoy reading it half as much as I enjoyed writing it."

Dale Carnegie.

The book is dedicated to Mr. Carnegie's Father and Mother and is published by the Century Company of New York and London.

It was in London, Mr. Carnegie explains, that he became interested in writing this book. The late T. P. O'Connor, reputed "Father of the House of Commons," conducted in those days a column in the "Morning Post" entitled "Men and Memories." For several days the "Men and Memories" column carried such interesting facts on Abraham Lincoln that Mr. Carnegie decided to attempt to write this book. He spent a year working on it in London and then two more years working at it in New York.

He finally tore up all that he had written, threw it away, and then came out to Illinois, to write of Lincoln, as he says, "on the very ground where he himself had dreamed and toiled."

A feeling that there was a genuine need for a short biography that would tell the most interesting facts about his career briefly and tersely for the average busy and hurried citizen of today, Mr. Carnegie wrote this book. The volume is divided into four parts which contain a total of thirty three chapters which fascinate the reader.

Guess Who?

Right the first time. The character in the last "Guess Who" was Robert "Duck" Dowell.

Guess with us on this one.—He is quite well known on the campus, his popularity having increased the last few weeks. He is a sophomore, has blue eyes, and light brown hair, and has been termed as "big, tall, expressionless." If you would like to see him, he may be at the "gym," on first floor of the administration building or at the Bearcat Inn. We feel safe in saying that Maryville, S. T. C., is proud of him.

College High Seniors Will Present Comedy

"The Touchdown," a comedy in four acts by Marion Short, has been selected by the College High seniors as their class play.

The play is the story of life in Sidel, a Pennsylvania co-educational college. It deals with the vicissitudes and final triumph of the Sidel football eleven, and the humorous and dramatic incidents connected therewith.

April 21 has been set as the date for the production. Students are to be admitted on their minor activity coupons.

The play is to be directed by Jerome Smith, under the supervision of the Speech Department of the College.

Over the Library Desk

The teacher's load is a subject that we oft have asked to dig up the "dope" on for some faculty member or for an advanced student that may be preparing a weighty paper in order to meet a requirement.

We haven't yet discovered just what the teacher's load should be but believe it is lighter than it was in the good old days.

David Starr Jordan once accepted a $1300 professorship of Natural Sciences at Lombard University. He found Natural Science to be an expansive subject. His "chair" demanded classes in Zoology, Botany, Geology, Mineralogy, Chemistry, Physics, Political Economy, Paley's "Evidences of Christianity" and, incidentally, German and Spanish!

He also had charge of the weekly "literary exercises" taught at a class in Sunday School and served as pitcher of the student ball team.

Sigma Tau Gamma Elects.

L. N. Bricken of Sedalia was recently elected president of Sigma Tau Gamma for the following school year. Bricken, who takes office immediately, succeeded Mack Graham in this office.

Other officers elected at the same time were Howard Cofer, vice-president; Albert Kreed, house manager; Jim Stubbs, treasurer; Charles Bell, secretary; and Paul Farnell, pledge master.

Items From the Commerce Department

In its attempt to balance the budget, Congress should not overlook the Federal Estate or Inheritance Tax.

Under the present law, there is a tax of 1 per cent for the first $50,000 and the tax is graduated on up to 20 per cent for estates above $10,000,000. Certain allowances are made for gifts, debts and state estate taxes.

This tax produced $64,769,000 in 1930, but fell to $48,078,000 last year. By an increase to a maximum of 45 per cent, Congressmen Ramseyer estimates that it would yield $500,000,000 a year. This rate would still leave our nation under the rates in any other great commercial and industrial nation, for the maximum in England is 50 per cent, while the maximum in France is 98 per cent. Furthermore, the proposed "hike" to a maximum of 45 per cent would probably be merely temporary, in order to meet the present grave national emergency.

Mr. Mounce, of the Commerce Department, asks the question: "Wouldn't it be better to balance the budget in this way to balance it through some form of a sales tax which throws the burden on the common man?"

Dr. Fair Addresses College Faculties

President of Kirksville S. T. C. Praises Spirit of Co-Operation in Colleges.

Addressing the Missouri State Teachers College faculties at their recent meeting in Kirksville at the Saturday morning session, President Eugene Fair of the College at Kirksville said that the teachers College teacher must be not only a good teacher but also an expert at teaching students how to teach.

As official speaker for the other presidents of the State Teachers Colleges of Missouri, President Fair expressed appreciation for the fine spirit of cooperation existing between the various faculty groups and their presidents. He praised the teachers for their friendly and helpful attitude toward students and said that he believed this attitude is worthy of further development.

Mr. Fair thinks that one of the chief justifications for the Teachers College is their fine community service in which they have achieved recognition in the past and in which they are making rapid progress at the present time.

The following members of the faculty of the College attended the meeting which was social and professional. Misses Dykes, Painter, Keith, De Luce, Bowman, James and Dr. Hake, Dr. Mehus, H. T. Phillips, R. A. Kinnaird, G. C. Schowengerdt, W. T. Garrett, A. H. Cooper, E. W. Mounce and S. G. LaMar.

VERSES

Captives

My thoughts are birds that strive to reach the sun
And carry off its fire.
Poor fragile things that dare a universe
On wings that tire!

My words are pretty cages
With little bars that shine,
And in them I have prisoned
These soaring thoughts of mine.

But oh, because they wanted so
To sing among the stars,
They never cease to beat their wings
Against the silver bars.

Touch

I don't know why it is that touch
Should be
Fatal to beauty's charm and mystery,
But trial has taught me that one
Must not dare
To handle loveliness that's frail
And rare.

Minds are forever longing, and
Hearts forever aching,
But hands can't touch a bubble,
Without the bubble breaking.

Touch

I don't know why it is that touch
Should be
Fatal to beauty's charm and mystery,
But trial has taught me that one
Must not dare
To handle loveliness that's frail
And rare.

Hearts forever aching,
But hands can't touch a bubble,
Without the bubble breaking.

"Snooper" Gets Data on Faculty

Second Cousin to Stroller Writes on Careers of Dr. Mehus and Mr. Dieterich.

The Faculty Snooper, second cousin to the Stroller, has of late been making some investigations that disclose some "lowdown" of interest to the student body concerning the faculty, and may deprive that serene group of some of its veneer of dignity.

"If you ever hear Pete going tweet, tweet, on his piccolo" down third floor hall some day, don't be at all surprised to find the tweeting emanating from lips of Dr. Mehus. Or he might be out in the wide open spaces doing the Stars and Stripes Forever on his flute, another pastime in which he wields a wicked whistle. Furthermore, don't be surprised, if you should get him confused sometime in class, to hear him burst forth in a conglomerate mess of Greek and Norwegian. He learned to bawl for something to eat in the Norse tongue, his undergraduate major was in Greek, and he picked up English as a sideline in his spare hours. Where social science comes in no one seems to know, as his under graduate minors were English, Norwegian, and Religion. Seems as though he was quite anxious to learn to talk in at least some kind of language.

Won Many Medals.
Stalcup, Woolsey, Saylor and some others in their college activities here either. The aforesaid same O. Myking Mehus, when in college, was president of his student body, editor of his college annual, and editor of the college newspaper. He has won so many medals, and so many oratorical contests that it makes the Snooper dizzy to think of them. After such accomplishments, he then admits that he enjoys the movies as one of his hobbies.

Dr. Mehus says that some of his other hobbies perhaps are: Making things for his three children; writing magazine articles, and gardening.

Born in North Dakota.
Dr. Mehus, member of the faculty of the Social Science Department of the College, was born in Brinsmade, North Dakota. He has taught in high school at Essenden and Harvey, North Dakota, and Spring Grove, Minnesota. He has taught in college and university at State Teachers College, Maryville, North Dakota, at the University of Minnesota and at Wittenberg College, Springfield, Ohio.

Another Versatile Man.
One of the most popular men, as well as one of the most versatile, in his undergraduate and graduate work, seems to be represented in the person of Herbert Dieterich, now principal of the College High School. Who on our campus can beat this? When "Herb" was attending Missouri Wesleyan College, he was president of the Freshman and Sophomore classes, and in his Senior year was president of the student body at large. He was quite a whang on the football team, and was mean star with the basketball, and was sufficiently peculiar in his tastes to study chemistry as a major and biology as a minor, to say nothing of exceptional struggles with the King's English, still another minor. He is still driving his 1929 Scatrollet Chevy, and brags about its performance.

For one of his chores he claims to be feeding hens which supply eggs for his three pugilistically inclined heirs. Mr. Dieterich, who was born in Clark county, Missouri, attended high school at Marceline, Missouri, which is his home town. He has served as principal of the Maryville high school and has taught in the high schools at Moberly and Marceline. He teaches classes here in the College along with his work as principal of the College High School and while taking graduate work recently at Ohio State College, taught some of the regular college classes.

High School Dramatic Club Presents Program

The College High School Dramatic Club presented a program at the Mask and Gavel club meeting last Thursday morning, as follows:

Vocal solo, "Smilin' Through," Lucille Farrar.

Reading, "The Little Outcast's Plea," Leona Mae Shell.

Play, "Poverty," The cast: Leland Thornhill—Father. Lucille Farrar—Mother. Ralph Collins—Sylvia. Vera Rogers—Gerda.

At the meeting of the club next Thursday morning at eleven o'clock the play, "The Heart of a Clown" will be given. Everyone is welcome to attend the meetings.

Fine Arts Club Meets

Members and pledges of the Fine Arts Club met at 5:00 o'clock yesterday afternoon in Social Hall at the College.

Harvey Hollar, principal of the high school at Kearney, was at the College last Saturday. Mr. Hollar received degree from the College last year.

STROLLER

There is a young lady in S. T. C., who wouldn't have those of us here at the College take Springfield, Warrensburg and Kirksville too seriously. She thinks these towns are in this district.

This same young lady tells the Stroller that she is learning to swim and she believes that if she were thrown out of the window of an ocean liner she could swim. But—she adds that she would first have to sink to the bottom to get her start. Now of course there are perhaps many girls in school who feel the same way about the above mentioned towns and no doubt there are many girls in school taking swimming who play submarine before getting off to a good swimming start. The Stroller doesn't like to just come out and tell who people are, but if you guess three times the young lady's initials will still be M-L-R-D ST.—RT.

It has been known for some time that Fred Larason has been acting peculiarly; in fact ever since he met a certain young lady his reactions have been more pronounced. However, his true condition was not realized until last Friday morning when at 8 o'clock, two trustees, N. Clough and B. Keefe, saw him riding in the State Hospital car on Noyes Boulevard in St. Joseph.

The Stroller notices that Marvin Shamberger is still king when it comes to being elected to the office of secretary-treasurer of something.

Not many students know that Miss Dykes, of the faculty of the English Department, is a good song leader and that she used to play the piano for church and other occasions.

Speaking of singing, the Stroller has inside information to the effect that the College bus with its load of ten faculty members sounded sorta like a steam callopie, merry-go-round, ferris wheel or some such machine, as it returned its way over highway 36 on the weekend trip from Kirksville, last Saturday.

While not all of the S. T. C. faculty members yielded to temptation at the suggestion that each bed-time story or at the suggestion that each sing a song learned in childhood, every one of them contributed to what turned out to be the best old-fashioned song sing perhaps ever turned loose on Joe and the College bus.

The Stroller has it from good authority that E. W. Mounce, has an unusually strong bass voice. G. C. Schowengerdt sings any of the regular four parts or at any rate he helps to preserve harmony. R. A. Kinnaird joins in lustily on his favorite songs. Dr. Painter sings solos in a charming manner as does Miss Keith, or Miss DeLuce or Miss Dykes. Any combination of above mentioned voices can handle duets in a manner which would please the ear of most any Duke or King. Omyking Mehus puts as much vim and vigor in his singing as he does in his most excellent propaganda for World Peace.

A. H. Cooper has no peer in this line and adequately lives up to his department when an opportunity to sing presents itself. Of course, Mr. Cooper can sing better if he is sitting next to the right person.

Rumor has it that Leslie G. Somerville took a 10-mile round trip excursion over muddy roads, on horseback recently. He borrowed the farm horse from a school girl. He had no saddle. He tells the Stroller that he now believes more firmly than ever in retirement fund or pensions for jockeys.

Recently several hundred College bulletins containing information on the Short Course and the coming Summer Session, have been mailed out to teachers who may be interested in attending College here and to high school principals and superintendents in the Northwest District. Those desiring a bulletin should write to the College for one.

Car Burns

There was considerable excitement seen on the campus in front of the Administration Building yesterday when the model "T" Ford car which Forest Conrad drives, caught fire, supposedly from a short circuit, and burned. The Maryville Fire Department was called and after moving the car away from those next to it succeeded in extinguishing the blaze. The car belongs to Mrs. Conrad, who lives on the gravelled road between Maryville and Ravenwood. The Conrad children attend the C. H. S.

The Y. M. C. A. Quartet sang several numbers at the meeting of the Alpha Phi Sigma fraternity held in Social Hall at the College Thursday evening. Alpha Phi Sigma is planning to have a picnic soon.

S. T. C. Speakers Make Good Record

Debaters Rank Among Nation's Upper One-Fourth at National Contests.

Maryville S. T. C. has a right to feel proud of the showing made by her representatives in the National Forensic Contests held in the New Hotel Tulsa at Tulsa, Oklahoma, last week.

Jerome Smith reached the finals in extemporaneous speaking and placed sixth out of 76 of the best representatives from the colleges and universities of the nation.

In the contests which included debate, extemporaneous speaking and oratory, for both men and women, there were representatives from 32 of the 48 states, from 105 universities and colleges, with a total of 550 coaches, delegates and entrants in attendance. It is reported that this is the largest Speech Convention in the World.

Rank Among Upper Fourth
The S. T. C. debaters, Shamberger and Galt and Shamberger and Smith made an excellent showing to rank in the upper one-fourth of the nations best of 102 entrants in the debate contests. They won four and lost two debates, being eliminated in the sixth round.

The question for debate was, Resolved: That Congress should enact legislation providing for centralized control of industry. The subject for the extemporaneous speeches was "The 1932 Political Campaign." Mr. Smith chose for his contest speeches the following sub-topics of the above general subject: The Radio and the Campaign; Is the Presidential Primary of Value? Why are College Students not More Interested in Politics? Newton D. Baker; and Bankers' Internationalists.

Speech Fraternity Chartered
At this convention Maryville S. T. C. was granted a chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, national honorary forensic fraternity. For several years the College has been petitioning for a chapter in this fraternity which is perhaps the largest and most active speech fraternity in the world. S. T. C. has the honor of being one of eight schools unconditionally recommended for a charter out of a total of twenty three applicants for charter.

Mr. Miller reports that he plans to install the chapter here sometime this month.

Professional Music Fraternity Is Formed by Students Here

Through the work of the members of the Music Conservatory and Charles E. Gardner, a Public School Music Fraternity has been organized and established. This fraternity is a professional organization, open to music students who have superior standing and who belong to music activities. Membership also includes those of the Music Faculty who wish to become members.

Officers of Alpha Psi Epsilon are President, Donald Johnson; vice-president, Ruth Stewart; secretary, Aleatha Bestinger; treasurer, Glenn P. Duncan; historian, Wilma Lewis; counsellor, Charles Gardner.

Membership of the fraternity includes: Carl Blackwelder, Mildred Fickie, Katherine Gray, Maude Waltemath, Edson Miller, Martha Pfeiffer, LaVerna Wells, Calvin Allen, Mary Allen, Anna Mae Brown, Helen Corman, Lillie Merkle, Bernice Pence, Harrison Rider, Beatrice Sherman, Marion Gann Vail, Romona VanVelson, Charlotte Wood, Dorothy Babb, Marie Day, Wilson Dowden, Edna Ecker, Julia Gates, Carrie Jean Heathman, Russell Herbert, Mary Hiltchcock, Helen Kelley, Lucille Lackey, Helen Murray, Genevieve Wilson, Genevieve Miller.

Hear Lecture by Architect.

The classes in Fine and Industrial Arts heard a lecture by Roy Crans, consulting architect for Cook Paint and Varnish Company of Kansas City, yesterday at one o'clock hour, in Social Hall. The lecture concerned interior and exterior painting and decorating.

W. A. A. Formal.

At the W. A. A. Meeting held at the Gymnasium, last Thursday evening the group voted to have the W. A. A. formal party at the Maryville Country Club, Thursday evening, May 5. Several of the W. A. A. girls and their sponsor took a ten-mile hike into the country last Saturday morning. The group started at 8 a. m. and prepared breakfast on the trip. Miss R. Dell Chick is president of the organization.

Irvin Gubser, who was graduated from the College in 1929, and Homer Richmond, B. S., 1931, called at the College for a brief visit last week. They are teaching in the high school at Hubbard, Ohio, and brought Principal Sprague of the high school, back with them for their Easter vacation. Mr. Gubser's home is at Hamburg, Ia., and Mr. Richmond's home is at Grant City.

Hoover Answers Critics of Plan to Cut Expenses

the subject, and again three years ago, two years ago, five months ago, four months ago, six weeks ago, I recommended authorization to the executive, to make a wholesale reorganization, but such reorganization in each case to be subject to the approval of congress. Action has not been taken.

A dominant consideration is that all these items concern a great number of committees in congress. They concern a great number of departments and bureaus. . . . Even if we have the very best will in the world, without an atom of partisanship, the mere diffusion of effort seemingly makes effective progress on important items impossible.

Not a Commission.
"What I have asked for is not a commission but merely that the senate and the house should each delegate representatives to sit down with representatives from the administration and endeavor to draft a comprehensive, general, national economy bill, covering the second and third areas of possible reduction in expenses.
"This one single economy bill or a few bills, could be presented to the congress embodying all the measures of economy proposed where change in the laws are necessary. Without such action, I see no way by which there can be a maximum reduction in expenditures."

Block-Booking of Motion Picture Films Is Declared Legal

New York, April 5.—(AP)—The United States circuit court of appeals today upheld the practice of block-booking a system by which motion picture exhibitors are required to lease films in a group in order to get one desired film.

The federal trade commission sought to stop the practice and the struggle between it and the motion picture producers and distributors has been of long standing.

The opinion was written by Presiding Judge Martin T. Manton, and it held that the block-booking practice had not shown "effective or destructive injury to first-run houses" and that the evidence submitted "indicated a state of fair completion in the industry."

In substance the court ruled that a distributor of films by lease or sale has the right to select his own customers and to sell such quantities at given prices or to refuse to sell at any particular person for reasons of its own.

Valuation Cuts May Not Be Made Until Thursday

The county board of equalization will not make the 6 per cent reduction on farm lands and 10 per cent cut on city real estate assessed valuation until late today, or tomorrow, after the completion of assessments have been presented, it was said today by Judge Al Kider.

Most of the orders made by the equalization board have been for reductions in assessments, but the reductions were small. The county board is entitled, under authority of the state equalization board, to decrease the total assessments in the county 6 per cent on farms and 10 per cent on town lots. The day will be spent tomorrow in hearing complaints on Maryville assessments.

Two Bank Mergers
Jefferson City, April 5.—(AP)—The state finance department announced today that the Citizens Bank of Avalon had been taken over by the Citizens National Bank of Chillicothe. The department also was advised that the Bank of Wallace had been taken over by the Drovers and Merchants' Bank of St. Joseph.

American Rose Society Gives Directions for Pruning Roses.

How to prune a rose depends first upon the species to which it belongs and then upon the purpose the grower has in mind. The general rule for pruning roses is to cut hard for fine flowers and lightly for many flowers.

Roses fall into five classes, each one of which should be pruned according to the manner in which the roses of that class grow:

1. Hybrid Teas bloom on shoots which grow during the year in which they arise.
2. Hybrid Perpetuals bloom only on shoots that come from wood of preceding years.
3. Hardy Climbers bloom on old wood.
4. Small flowering ramblers bloom only on new shoots from canes one year old, therefore all two-year-old canes may be removed; the best time to do this is immediately after blooming is over.
5. Shrub roses, rugosas, briars, Hugonis, need no pruning.

The rose grower must keep these five classes in mind when he starts to prune roses. When the protection is taken away in the spring the dead wood must be cut out. After the dead wood has been taken out, the live shoots on classes one and two need shortening according to the purpose in mind.

Cutting hybrid tea hard means removing all branches to within two or three inches of the ground; moderately cut, it will be six or eight inches from the ground; lightly cut it merely has the twigs tips cut off.

A hybrid perpetual pruned hard will be six inches high; moderately cut, it will be twelve or fifteen inches high; lightly cut, two or three feet.

Make all cut just above an eye. After pruning, the roses should be sprayed with Bordeaux mixture. Continue spraying with Bordeaux every two weeks until the leaves are half grown. After that use some fungicide every week.

Do as little pruning as possible on the hardy climbers, merely snip off weak branches; every three or four years take out old wood that has become diseased.

When shrub roses get too big cut out some of the bush at the base. If they develop dead wood cut it off at the base also. Use sharp shears and wear heavy leather gloves for this work.

Quiet Election at St. Joseph.
St. Joseph, Mo., April 5.—(AP)—The only interesting phase of today's municipal election in St. Joseph was the absence from the polls of policemen for the first time in many years. Following charges last week by Democrats that a police department machine was being used to re-elect John Schuder mayor on the Republican ticket, the police board issued orders forbidding policemen to take a part in election except to vote. A. H. Holkenbrink, president of the city council, is the Democratic candidate for mayor.

Capper Declares Banking Interests Betrayed Country

Washington, April 5.—(AP)—A charge that Congress has been "deceived" and the country "betrayed" by "powerful banking interests working through the reconstruction finance corporation" was made today by Senator Capper (R., Kan.).

In a radio speech Capper said the $12,800,000 loan to the Missouri Pacific railroad was "unjustified, contrary to public policy, and a moral violation of the terms of the act."

He tempered his criticism, however, by saying the corporation had "done some great work" through helping credit conditions.

In the Missouri Pacific case, he said the corporation "had reached into the treasury" and given to Morgan and company, Kuhn, Loeb and company, and the Guaranty Trust company dollars worth at least 30 per cent more in purchasing power than the dollars they had loaned to the railroad in the first place.

Authority on Aeronautics Dies of Pneumonia at 63

Irvington, N. Y., April 5.—(AP)—Matthew Bacon Sellers, Jr., 63, technical assistant to Secretary of the Navy under Josephus Daniels in World War time, an outstanding authority on aeronautics and one of the sponsors of the naval air service, died at his home today.

Death came from a heart attack when Mr. Sellers was convalescing from pneumonia.

The widow and two sons survive.

Mr. Sellers, during the war, passed on all naval inventions before they were accepted and put in use. He was an authority on aero dynamics and was credited with inventing the lightest plane to fly with the smallest horsepower engine ever developed. He discovered the lift and drift on arched surfaces by means of the wind tunnel.

Auto Stolen From City Employee Is Returned

Late last night a Whippet car, owned by Harold V. Allen, an engineer at the city pumping station east of the city, was stolen from the garage on the station grounds to be returned early this morning.

A check-up of the speedometer shows that the car had been driven seventy miles. Nearly all the gas and oil had been consumed. It was also shown that whoever "borrowed" the car had experienced trouble with a flat tire.

The car was found by police parked on the road running south just west of the pumping station. Several foot prints were found.

Mr. Allen had left the door to the garage unlocked and the keys to the car were in it.

In Business 48 Years.

Yesterday marked the forty-eighth anniversary of John Murrin's entrance in the clothing business in Maryville. An unusual part of this is that all of that time the business has remained in the same building in which it is now located. The firm is known as the Corwin & Murrin Clothiers. Mr. Murrin became associated in the clothing business April 4, 1884, when it was known as the Hughes-Snapp clothiers.

PLAY IS PRESENTED.

150 People Attend Presentation at Happy Hollow School.

A three-act play, "A Poor Married Man" was given Saturday night at the meeting of the Happy Hollow Community Circle at the Happy Hollow school with about 150 people in attendance.

Members of the cast were Mr. and Mrs. Byron Wray, Elbert Wray, Mrs. William Buckner, Mrs. Edith Alexander, and Orin, Gennis and Gladys Florea.

This was the last meeting of the circle for this school year. The teacher, Noble Florea and the pupils are planning to have a program and a basket dinner on the last day of school.

"Many difficulties, no transportation no sleep, sometimes hungry, but withal CHEERFUL"

Violent Earthquakes tumbled a Central American city into ruins. The homeless, injured, and dying numbered thousands. Highways and communication systems were destroyed, discouraging obstacles confronted the reporters but the world got the news promptly. Q An ASSOCIATED PRESS correspondent fought his way over impassable roads to a temporary radio station and sent his story. A staff member risked a dangerous airplane flight to reach the scene. The far-flung resources of the organization were called into play to cover every angle of this tremendously important news event. Q "... many difficulties, no transportation, no sleep, sometimes hungry but withal cheerful" wired this small band striving against odds to report the facts without minimizing, without exaggerating. NEW CUSTOMERS

It is a losing game for the store that does not get new customers. New customers are necessary for the life of the store. Without them no store can continue for long.

The population of Maryville is constantly changing. New people come to town while others are moving way. Babies are born, and grow to manhood or womanhood. Others pass on to another life. It is a constantly changing population.

The merchant who says, "Oh, I have been here for years and years, every one knows me," is fooling himself. In the time of one year, young men and women change from the child who wore what their parents purchased, to the ones who (either with their own earned money or their parents) inform their parents they are going to buy this or that, at so-and-sos.

It is the consistent Daily Forum advertisers who tell the population of Nodaway County their store news, that are keeping up with this ever-changing population. They are not buying from the merchant who never invites them into their store—

They buy from the ones who invite them in—the ones who inform their public of their new merchandise—new prices—and those who really invite new customers.

Roosevelt Grows in Popularity as Rivals Diminish

New York Governor Is Far in the Lead For Presidential Nomination.

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer
Washington—A fundamental factor in Democratic presidential politics, which explains the present trend and is likely to explain the result of the convention contest, is the contrast between the strength of Governor Roosevelt's position and the weakness of the position of Al Smith.

There is some question whether Smith's candidacy should be called a candidacy at all. But whatever it is, it is supposed to be the backbone of the movement to "stop Roosevelt" and if it says to the point of collapse the "stop-Roosevelt" movement will collapse along with it.

The apparent strength of the Roosevelt position as compared with the weakness of the Smith position seems all the more remarkable when you recall their respective positions four years ago. Smith was the fair-haired hero of Democracy and Roosevelt was the nice fellow who had the privilege of placing him in nomination at the convention.

How Times Have Changed

But today—Roosevelt is so far in the lead as a contender for the nomination that, although he is not certain of victory, no one else is more than mentioned as a serious possibility. If he does not enter the convention with a majority of delegates or enough to put him over on the first ballot, he will at least come very close to a majority and if he should lose the nomination he would certainly come near dictating the eventual choice.

The distinguished political analysts who were unanimous in reiterations a few months ago that Smith would control the nomination have all tossed that tune out the window.

He's a Vote-Getter
Roosevelt is governor of New York and his party always looks to New York when it has a governor there. He is popular with the voters, as was so well demonstrated in his 1930 re-election majority of 750,000.

For years he has been in contact with party leaders—he was once assistant secretary of the Navy and he has cultivated the contacts rather than let them lapse. He has always been progressive enough to appeal to the more forward looking element of the party now and to provide a contrast with the political philosophy of President Hoover and most other aspirants.

His popularity extends through all sections. He has few bitter enemies. One does not mean to suggest that the masses of voters are rising up spontaneously to demand Roosevelt, but his strength is spread over the country and not sectional.

The Name's Attractive
His name is attractive to voters and, as a former government official and lately governor of the largest state, he is experienced in large public affairs. His general availability, from almost any standpoint, is obvious. There is a definite side of the picture, of course, but this summary, coupled with the fact that Roosevelt is above all else anxious to pick a winner, will help to explain why Roosevelt is marching along to what looks more and more like victory.

Al Smith, on the other hand, has let himself for plenty of criticism and a loss of prestige. He announced that he appreciated the efforts of his friends to elect Smith delegates, but has done or said nothing to indicate that he considers himself a candidate or hopes to win. The result is that while Smith's friends are permitted to use his name they are very seriously handicapped in all their efforts by a widespread belief that Smith only entered the picture in order to help the movement to block Roosevelt.

The New Hampshire Case
Whether this common attitude toward Smith is entirely fair is beside the point. It represents a distinct comedown for Smith which is accentuated by such events as his defeat in the New Hampshire primary, in which Smith's name was entered after the leaders virtually had it rigged up for Roosevelt. And whenever the political stature of a rival leader such as Smith or Speaker Garner seems to diminish, Roosevelt automatically looms larger in proportion.

This and That

J. Arthur Wray, former Maryville resident, who now lives at 807 East Central avenue, Redlands, Calif., has sent The Forum several specimens of Redlands' outdoor growth as it appears today. Mr. Wray tells about the vegetation as follows:

The stems of oats grew along the right of way of the railroad, where I often take my walks, and that is where the wheat was growing, also, but the oats is much more in evidence there, it apparently having been lost out of a leaky car originally.

The wisteria has been in bloom for some weeks; the bridal wreath is just now coming into its own, of snowy splendor, as is the lilac. Roses grow and bloom all winter as do geraniums and sweet peas, and many other flowers. I have not enclosed specimens of all the flowers mentioned, but I enclosed some that I have not named, of which I wish to speak. The yellow spray of bloom is from the Jessamine vine, a climbing, bower forming climber, which grows wild in Louisiana and some of the other southern states.

The sprig with the little white flowers like roses, is in fact a rose, a small one with a big name, "Lady Banksia." I am sending it because it grew in front of Dr. Frank Blake's residence. It is a climber, for sure, a much more successful climber than I was back there one snowy day, out rabbit hunting, and fell from a tree, bruising an old leg quite a bit more than it seemed to appreciate, for it gave me a very impressive warning to be more careful in contact with other individuals, into whom I might happen to bump. But, that's digressing. Mr. Blake said he considered the rose vine seventy-five feet, or possibly a hundred feet in length before he cut it back to its present extent, it growing up on the trees in the front yard to the trees along the street, passing from one tree to another in its journey. Dr. Blake, most of you know, is a former Maryville dentist.

You will find some California poppies in the selection also. The apricots are about the size of robins' eggs here now.

Ding Bats Defeat Haystackers in Bowling Match

The Maryville Ding Bats, after spotting the St. Joseph Haystackers 131 pins in the first game of their match last night at the Garten and Thompson alleys, came back in the second game to go eight-six pins up on the candy makers and then went on to win by 102 pins. The Ding Bats six-man team totaled 3152 pins for three games to 3050 for the Douglas candy company crew. Charles Stanfield of the Maryville team was high ten with 224 and high thirty with 593. Frazer was high ten for his team with 213 while Wake was high thirty for his team with 542.

Flashes of Life

By The Associated Press

Chicago—Nix on the hero stuff. Policeman Joseph Sychowski wants a new pair of pants. He captured a runaway balloon after dashing 12 blocks clinging to a dangling rope. Once or twice during the chase, he sat down, and that was hard on the trousers.

Karachi, India—Shoes two bits a pair! American factories, disposing of surplus stocks ten years old, have provided tons of footwear for ladies here. Most of them have high tops.

Sherridon, Manitoba—Lizzie, a mule, is wise. "She" refuses to walk in snow without snowshoes. Her master, a trapper, taught her how to use them.

Zakopane, Poland—The sports mode is gaining concessions from the clergy. Some churches at winter resorts now admit women wearing ski-trousers. Others bar them, though.

Verona, Italy—Shopping for a meal like this would be no trouble at all. A six course dinner, everything made of rice, was served at a rice growers convention. It included rice ice cream.

Maryville High Is Again Approved by North Central

The Maryville Junior and Senior High School is again placed on the accredited list of schools by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

Notification of this fact was received by H. S. Thomas, principal of the high school, from Professor J. D. Elliff, of Columbia, Missouri, Chairman of the Missouri Committee of the Association. Mr. Elliff called particular attention to the regulation which states that no school can be accredited to the Association unless it is in the highest class of schools listed by the properly constituted authority in the state.

Buster Keaton and Wife Differ Over An Airplane Ride

Los Angeles, April 5.—(P)—Differences between Buster Keaton, smiling screen comedian, and his wife, the former Natalie Talmadge, apparently have been settled after coming to the attention of the district attorney's office here and the San Diego police department.

The trouble arose, so both Keaton and his wife said, when the former decided to take his two sons, Joe, 9, and Robert, 8, for an airplane ride yesterday. Mrs. Keaton said she did not want her sons to make the trip.

Learning the father had taken the boys and Connie Consuelo, their governess, to San Diego by plane, Mrs. Keaton, in company with her sister, Mrs. Constance Talmadge Netcher, hurried to the district attorney's office.

Buron Fitts, the prosecutor, telephoned San Diego police at their request to stop the comedian.

Keaton was held in San Diego more than an hour. Then he was freed. He, his sons and the governess were to return to Los Angeles today.

"Any report that Buster and I have separated is nonsense," said Mrs. Keaton. "One doesn't separate over such arguments."

"It was just a little family difficulty," the comedian stated. "There's nothing to the whole thing—it's so trivial."

The comedian's mother, however, said she had known there had been some domestic difficulty in her son's home.

"Natalie has not been home since Friday," the mother said.

Games Will Open in Los Angeles July 30 and End August 14.

Los Angeles, April 5.—(AP)—Fourteen worldwide sports governing federations have agreed on a final program for the tenth Olympiad games to be held in Los Angeles July 30 to August 14. Their completed work represents two years of study.

The games will open the afternoon of July 30 with a parade of nations. A night game of American football will be played in the Olympic stadium Aug. 8.

Other events in the program:

Weight lifting, in Olympic auditorium, afternoon of July 31 and evenings of July 30 and 31; fencing, state armory, mornings of Aug. 1, 5, 6, 8, 10 and 12; afternoon of July 31 and evenings of July 30 and 31.

Track and field athletics, Olympic stadium, mornings of Aug. 5 and 6; afternoon of July 31 and August 1 to 7, inclusive.

Wrestling, Olympic auditorium, mornings and evenings of Aug. 1 to 7, inclusive.

Field hockey, in Olympic stadium, afternoon of Aug. 8 and 11.

Cycling, Pasadena rose bowl, nights of Aug. 1, 2 and 3; road cycling, morning of Aug. 4.

Modern pentathlon, five stadiums, Aug. 2 to 6, inclusive.

Swimming, Olympic swimming stadium, mornings and afternoon of Aug. 6 to 13.

Demonstration Lacrosse, Olympic stadium, afternoon of Aug. 7, 9 and 12.

Gymnastics, Olympic stadium, mornings of Aug. 8 to 12, inclusive; afternoon and evening of Aug. 10.

Boxing, Olympic auditorium, mornings of Aug. 10 and 11; afternoon and evening of Aug. 9 and 13.

Rowing, Long Beach Marine stadium, mornings and afternoon of August 9 and 12 and afternoon of Aug. 13.

Equestrian sports, Riviera Country club, Santa Monica, afternoon of Aug. 10 and 11 and afternoon of Aug. 13 and 14.

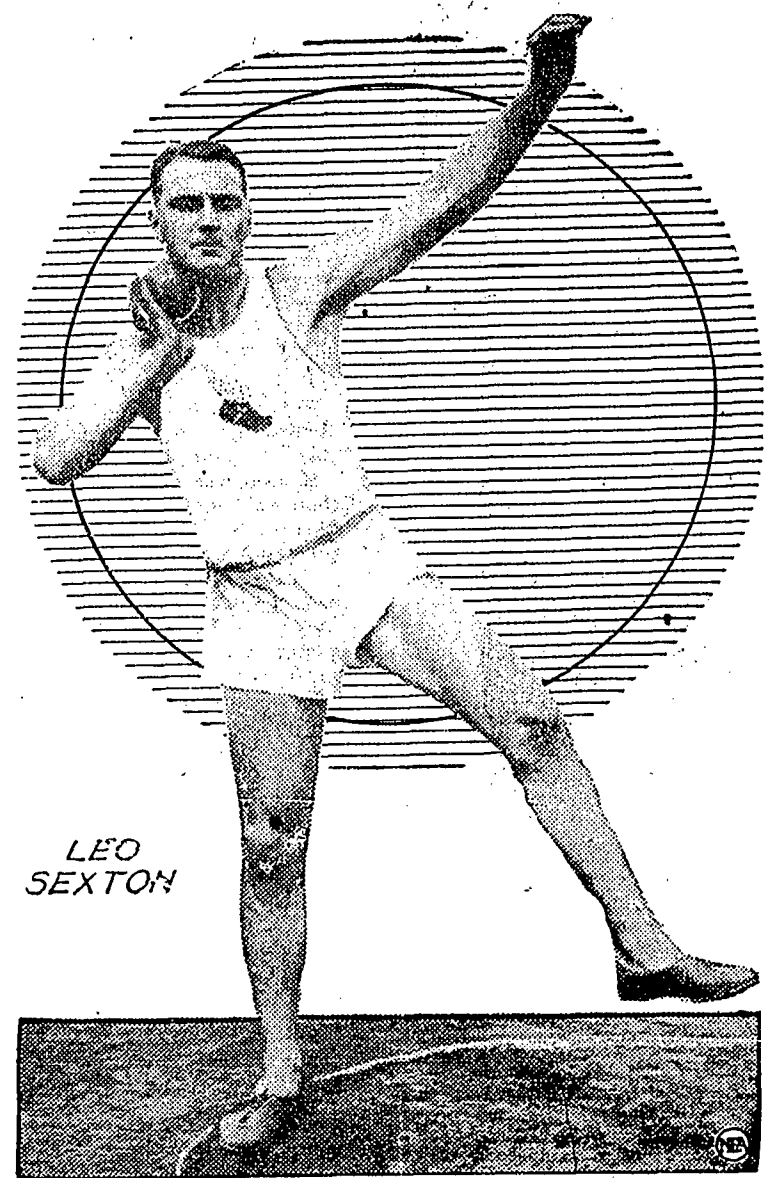

Shooting, Elysian Park, mornings and afternoon of Aug. 12 and 13.

Closing ceremony, Olympic stadium, afternoon of Aug. 14.

George Lott Retires From Davis Cup Competition

OLYMPIC HOPES

The official world record in the shot put is held by the German, Emil Hirschfeld, but it has been beaten in practice and competition by Leo J. Sexton, New York giant and a cinch to win a place on Uncle Sam's Olympic team. Several times during the indoor season, Sexton surpassed the 52-foot mark. In practice he has actually heaved the 16-pound ball more than 53 feet. Sexton is 6 feet 6 inches tall and weighs 240 pounds, but in spite of his size he is a fine all-around athlete. Three years ago, while weighing 212 pounds, he high-jumped 6 feet 4 inches. He also is a fair performer in the pole vault. Sexton is a former Georgetown University student. He will compete in the Olympic trials with the New York Athletic Club.

cago business man may prove a severe blow to the United States in this year's Davis Cup competition.

It probably will break up the Lott-Van Ryn combination which holds the Wimbledon doubles title and won the Davis Cup doubles against England last year. The team had been counted on to annex the doubles for the United States this year.

George M. Lott disclosed the situation in a telegram to the sports editor of a Philadelphia newspaper which said: "I am retiring from Davis Cup competition this year for business reasons."

British Walker Cup Golf Team Is Chosen; Wethered Is Left Off

St. Andrews, Scotland, April 5.—(AP)—The Royal and Ancient club of St. Andrews today announced the make-up of the Walker Cup golf team which will invade the United States this year to play Francis Ouimet's American squad.

The team is headed by T. A. Torrance, who is expected to be named captain. J. T. Bookless, John Burke, the Irish champion, Leonard Crawley, Lister Hartley, Rex Hartley, Eric McRuvie, and J. A. Stout.

One of the surprises was the omission of Roger Wethered, former amateur champion, who had been mentioned as a probable captain of the team. E. Martin Smith, present amateur title holder, also was not named.

The Walker Cup series was inaugurated in 1922 at the National Links, Long Island. It has been contested six times, with the United States victorious in all of them.

No place or date has been set for the matches this year and aside from (Daily March 29; April 5, 12 and 19).

TRUSTEE'S SALE. Default having been made for more than six months in payment of dues and interest secured by note described in deed of trust executed by Fred W. Spectators Will Pay Tax on Sport Admission Tickets

Chicago, Apr. 5.—(AP)—It looks as if the spectators will have to pay if congress adopts the 10 per cent tax on admission tickets to athletic events.

Leaders of almost every sport, questioned about the extra tax, reported that their budgets had been trimmed to such a minimum that there was nothing left but to make the public pay.

So far no major league owners have been located who intend to absorb the tax if levied and the same was true of all other branches. Big ten athletic directors today said there was no doubt but that the tax would be added to admission tickets.

Evan Williams Is Named Drake's Athletic Chief

Des Moines, Ia., Apr. 5.—(AP)—Evan O. (Bill) Williams, who built up a great record as a coach of winning teams at South High School in Minneapolis, will direct Drake University's athletic affairs next year.

His selection as Athletic director and head coach in both football and basketball was announced late yesterday by President D. W. Morehouse of Drake. The contract is for one year.

Williams coached 13 years at the Minneapolis school. His teams won the city football championship for the last four years and once turned out a state championship basketball team.

Mrs. Hill Sets Pace.

Greensboro, N. C., Apr. 5.—(AP)—Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City, and Mrs. Leon Solomon, of Memphis, by reason of their 85 and 88 cards for the qualifying round, headed the list of favorites today as match play began in the annual Dogwood tournament here.

National League Is Almost Even With American

But Cardinals Have Failed to Hold Up Their End in Inter-League Games.

New York, Apr. 5.—(AP)—Just stretch this spring training season for a few more weeks and the National League might pull up or even terms with the American in their inter-league series.

From an impressive .650 two weeks ago the American League's winning average against the National had shrunk to a modest .581 today, based on 25 victories and 18 defeats in 43 games.

As a matter of fact had the world champion St. Louis Cardinals upheld their end, the National League might be in the lead. Of six contests with American League rivals the Cardinals won only the first.

Of the American League's 25 victories the New York Yankees and Philadelphia Athletics have contributed nine apiece. Detroit has won four games and Boston, Washington and Cleveland one each.

The New York Giants, with three wins and one defeat, and the Phillies with a record of four victories in six starts are the only National League clubs boasting an average of better than .500 against the junior circuit.

Against all major league opposition, whether or not of inter or intra-league character, the Boston Red Sox and Washington Senators each have perfect records. That's not as impressive as it might sound, however, for each has played only one game against a major league team. The real leaders are the New York Giants with ten victories and four defeats.

In games of all descriptions, major and minor league competition combined, Washington leads with 14 victories and one defeat. The Chicago White Sox and Cleveland Indians have won 12 and lost 1 each and the Boston Red Sox nine and one. The Giants lead the National League in this respect with 20 victories and eight defeats.

INTERRUPT CITY SERIES.

Athletics and Phillies Have Won One Game Each—Runs Are Even. Philadelphia, Apr. 5.—(AP)—Even in their quest for the mythical championship of the city, the Athletics and the Phillies interrupted their five-game series today for games at Princeton and Reading, respectively. The A's last played Princeton in 1868.

The city series stands at one victory apiece, but more than that it stands at 12 runs apiece. The Phils beat the A's 8 to 4 at Shibe Park Saturday and the A's licked the Phils 8 to 4 at the Phillies' park yesterday. In Florida the A's split a two-game series.

SPORT SLANTS

By Alan Gould
Associated Press Sports Editor

Let's hope the temptations of spring do not result in our Olympic hopes of sweeping conquest this year being strewn along the cinder-paths of April, May, June and July, with little left for the grand finale at Los Angeles during the first week of August.

So far, and with the outdoor campaign just getting under way in the balmy sections of the land, American youth has been putting on the most startling track and field show of all time.

To the feats of such real stars as Venzke, Spitz, Sexton, Topolino, Eastman and Wykoff have been added exploits of the most amazing variety by boys whose names meant very little outside their own schools or conferences a few months ago.

The pace is bound to be accelerated from now on, especially with the big relay carnivals at Pennsylvania, Drake and Fresno furnishing impetus, but it will be well to keep a check-rein on some of the youthful race horses now at large.

None appreciates this any better than the veteran Mike Sweeney, who has played a big part in developing Gene Venzke into the country's foremost miler. Sweeney, realizing his charge must be properly handled to avoid pitfalls between now and the final Olympic trials in California, has mapped out a careful program of preparation. The temptation to accept too many invitations, social or athletic, will be avoided. "We must still get by the Olympic tryouts at Boston June 11 and then on July 6 at Chicago before we have even a fighting chance to run at Los Angeles," Sweeney points out.

Venzke Hardly Warm

Venzke's career at middle distance record-busting has just begun, in Sweeney's opinion. He says:

"Thirty-six years ago I witnessed the record-breaking performance of Tommy Connell when he negotiated the 1,320 yards in 3 minutes, 2.45.

"At that time, everyone agreed that record would stand for several decades, if not for all time, and I never thought I would live to see anyone even approach that great time. Gene, who missed the 3 mile mark by 2.5 of a second, has wonderful possibilities, and with another year of competition, it wouldn't startle me to see Venzke shatter this record of 36 years standing."

Good Old Days

Speaking of holdouts, Burt Shotton, in a fanning bid at Winter Haven, recalled the case of George Stone, outfielder of the St. Louis Browns, who battled his way to the American league championship in 1906 in a field that included such hitters as Cobb and Lajoie.

Stone, Shotton recalled, was offered a salary of $4,500 for the following year, refused to accept it and quit baseball when the Browns stood equally firm on their proposal.

For about three times that much salary, Chick Hafey of the St. Louis Cardinals, 1931 National League batting champion, has refused to report and remained at loggerheads with his employers.

International sports develop some dizzy situations. Take the matter of tennis. In years past Americans have been criticized abroad for invading foreign lands and carting away the trophies.

After all, weren't American altogether too serious about their sports; didn't they play to win, practice too intently, specialize like Tilden or Bobby Jones on one sport instead of playing half a dozen, none of them too well?

But the spice of international competition has made such classics as the Wimbledon championships, and with the possibility of the American Davis Cup team passing up the London tournament this year, criticism has taken a new turn.

Bruce Harris, tennis correspondent of the London Evening Standard, brands the proposed plan of the U. S. L. T. A. to sidetrack Wimbledon as an "unfriendly act."

The scheme is, he says, "stealing a march" on French and British players who will be toiling at Wimbledon while the Americans are rounding into championship form at a French resort or in the Roland Garros stadium in Paris.

FACTS YOU SHOULD KNOW about UTILITY MERCHANDISING

WHAT HAPPENED in KANSAS...

After passage of the "Utility Merchandising Law" in Kansas everyone suffered—Factory branches and distributors withdrew, shops were closed, rents were lost, salesmen discharged or taken off the road, transportation, filling stations, restaurants and hotels lost business and retail business slumped. General sentiment for repeal was reflected in resolution of Kansas Press Association passed unanimously Jan. 16, 1932:

"On the grounds of depriving cities and towns of adequate service and contributing to empty store rooms and unemployment, we urge the repeal of the law known as the 'Utility Merchandising Act' believing its operation has been a detriment, rather than a benefit to communities."

SHALL IT HAPPEN IN MISSOURI?

WHAT IS UTILITY MERCHANDISING?

It is the selling at retail to the public of reliable appliances and equipment for gas and electric service, such as stoves, heaters, vacuum cleaners, bulbs, washing machines, refrigerators, etc., at fair prices—and the prompt, expert servicing of all this equipment in the home.

It is now freely admitted throughout Kansas that a sad mistake was made in 1931 by the hasty passage of a state law known as the Kansas "UTILITY MERCHANDISING ACT." The immediate disastrous effects of the law are shown at the left.

So the Public May Know

Believing that complete widespread knowledge of the dangers and dire effects of such a law, will prevent MISSOURI from making a similar mistake, we will, in a series of advertisements in this newspaper show:

The Benefits of Utility Merchandising

1 TO THE PUBLIC

By upholding standard of merchandise quality.
By placing modern home convenience within reach at all times.
By giving better service.
By helping make fair prices.
By rate reductions.
By providing prompt, expert servicing of all equipment.
By keeping men at work.
By maintaining factory and wholesale contact.
By providing modern equipment to the farm and rural community.

2 TO THE RETAILER

By cooperative advertising.
By helping maintain fair prices.
By cooperative sales plans.
By fair, clean competition.

3 TO GENERAL CONDITIONS

By keeping distributors and factory branches active locally.
By reducing unemployment.
By helping carry trade thru bad periods.
By giving local factories and merchants support.
By contributing to store rentals.
By providing business for transportation, hotels, filling stations, etc.

We know that you do not want your community to be deprived of the many benefits of Utility Merchandising you now enjoy. The experience of Kansas should be convincing. It is of vital interest to you to know the facts. Read every ad to follow.

It was undoubtedly the largest assemblage of people that was in the First Christian church here yesterday afternoon, there to attend the last rites for J. B. Robinson. But they were not curious seekers. The many friends of Mr. Robinson closed their stores, or left their places of business to pay respects to a departed friend who held the confidence of a community and whose opinion was sought many times each day.

Maryville has lost one of its valued citizens, a man who early started in the banking business and remained steadfastly at his post until the last. In the last two or three troubled years he was more than ever on the alert to help and guide his fellowmen.

He leaves a big niche in this world. But despite all events the world moves on and his place will be taken. In his own institution, his associates will carry on. His bank is fortunate to have a man, his brother, F. P. Robinson, who has been counselor for many years and has held a position of responsibility, although behind the scenes for the past few years. F. P. Robinson is well acquainted with the institution, having served as cashier and as vice-president.

FREEDOM FOR THE PHILIPPINES.

By a vote of 306 to 47, the House has approved the Hare bill providing for independence for the Philippines after a period of eight years during which an island government is to be set up and a constitution prepared and approved by the president of the United States.

This action is in line with assurances the United States gave the Islands at the time of their acquisition from Spain more than thirty years ago. The Senate will probably concur in the action of the House.

The motives behind the overwhelming vote in the House are not as pure as they might be, however. Agitation for Philippine independence became pronounced in this country only two years ago when the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill was being passed. A number of interests were anxious to erect tariff barriers against trade from the Islands as well as against that from all other nations. This could not be done as long as we retained the Philippines. As a result a clamor arose to free the Islands in order to put them outside our tariff wall.

It was this motive which led many congressmen to vote for Philippine independence. How enlightened this idea remains to be seen.

There is no question that the people of that state, as of Missouri, are sorely in need of tax relief. Down there, however, they get relief, and get it promptly. The state, in its infinite wisdom, merely relieves them of their farms altogether.

From the human viewpoint a legal crime of enormous proportions is being enacted in Mississippi today.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

THE SENATE AND FEDERAL TAXES

St. Louis Post-Dispatch

It is encouraging to learn that the Senate, while favorable in the main to the Federal tax bill passed by the House, is disposed to correct its inequalities.

The House did very well until the powerful influences which usually control it began to make themselves felt. As a result the House completely reversed itself in the matter of surtaxes in the upper brackets. First adopting the Swing resolution carrying these rates up to 65 per cent, it at last weakened and returned to the Treasury's 40 per cent top.

Since higher surtaxes could not hurt anyone unable to pay them, it is fair to assume that it was the fear of dwindling campaign contributions that at last drove the House from its position.

Thus did the system which Prof. Taussig says ruins the country reassert its power to escape its proportionate share of the tax burden. It may be debatable whether the great incomes are capable of producing more revenue than the Treasury says they can produce; but the numerous excises which have been voted could have been imposed with much better grace had the House first demonstrated its willingness to tap the great fortunes which favorable governmental policies have permitted their possessors to acquire.

On the whole, however, the common man has gained more by the bill than he has lost. It is infinitely to be preferred to the program which was originally advanced by the Treasury. The administration proposed, for instance, to obtain only 9 per cent of the amount necessary to balance the budget by reducing expenditures; 8 per cent from the taxation of corporations, 14 per cent through taxes which would fall primarily on wealth, and the great majority, 69 per cent, by taxing general trade.

The final House bill, by contrast, proposes to raise 16 per cent of the required funds by cutting appropriations, 13 per cent by taxing corporations, 30 per cent by taxing wealth, through higher income and estate taxes, gift taxes, luxury taxes on jewels, furs, yachts and the like, the reduction of capital loss deductions and the taxation of dividends; and only 41 per cent by lowering income tax exemptions, raising postal rates and imposing excises on admissions, cosmetics, soft drinks, candy, telephone and telegraph messages, automobiles, radios and other articles of common consumption which fall most heavily on the masses.

The bill, moreover, is vastly superior to the measure which the Democratic-Republican coalition in the Ways and Means Committee attempted to wish upon the country. The general sales tax has been killed by a decisive vote of 238 to 100. The selective levies which have been imposed in its stead will not be greeted by the public with enthusiasm. But that is precisely why they are to be preferred. These nuisance taxes will unquestionably be repealed as soon as the fiscal emergency has passed.

Their unpopularity is a guarantee of their temporary character. The great threat of the general sales tax was that it would become so hidden in the price structure that it would arouse no serious complaint. The ultimate destruction of income and inheritance taxation and the substitution of extended sales levies would have become only a matter of time. The general sales tax was an 'entering wedge' for the eventual abolition of progressive taxation. Its defeat should be cause for general rejoicing.

There remain certain items in the new bill which are of doubtful value. The rules on excise, on oil and coal, for instance, are primarily

KITTY FREW

By Jane Abbott

SYNOPSIS: Kitty Frew determines to tell her husband, Gar, that he must not be so extravagant. She has insisted that he work. In the problems of her brief marriage Kitty has been advised by her husband's half-brother David. She doesn't suspect her greatest danger—Marge Crosby's interest in Gar.

CHAPTER 30

Gar's Roadster Waits

"I went over our bills yesterday, Gar," Kitty said. "We'll have to scrimp for the next two months to pay for them." She laughed, to make the scrimping seem nothing.

"Bills? Oh, I guess we don't have to worry about those."

"Christmas always costs a lot of money but it's worth it, isn't it? We can catch up easily; neither of us will need any clothes for ages. And I don't really need flowers, darling, though I love them when you send them. And I can cut down quite a bit on the house expenses." She kept to her light tone.

Gar pinched her cheek. "What you can't seem to grasp, Kit, is that you're married to a rich man's son. I could run an account in every store in this city and they'd stand for it; they know I'm coming into a lot of money some day."

Kitty had turned away to pour fresh coffee. Gar could not see the quick color that flamed to her face, the way she bit her lips together. She'd been dangerously near to a retort that would have made Gar angry. When she answered it was in a steady voice, soberly.

"I don't want it that way, Gar. I want us to get ahead on our own. And we will."

"Sure we will. And you're not to stew about money. Where are those bills? Give them to me. I'll take care of them."

"But how, Gar?"

"Oh, I've got a deal on. If he keeps his eyes open a man in business can turn over a thousand any time he wants to."

She gave him the little packet of bills and he put them in his pocket. "After this, I'll take care of these matters at the office. I'm not going to have you fussing about them." His manner was all tender.

He kissed her, put on his coat, kissed her again. Kitty began her day's program with a light heart. Oh, what a goose she'd been to worry, to feel afraid of talking to Gar about their finances. And what a man of the world Gar was getting to be!

The morning's mail brought her a long letter from Sally Withers.

"... Kitty, I'm telling you before anyone else, except my family, of course. Phil and I are engaged."

"He's been working in his father's bank but last month he got a position restrictive tariffs and have no proper place in a revenue measure. The ethics of refusing to allow deductions for capital losses while we continue to tax capital gains is exceedingly dubious.

A transfer tax of 1/4 of 1 per cent on shares, combined with the corporation income tax and the new provision which makes dividends taxable under the normal rates of the personal income tax, really subjects personal income from corporate business to triple taxation and thus discriminates unfairly against corporate activity.

These measures were adopted with much evidence of undue haste. It is certain that the issues which they involve will be more thoroughly ventilated when the bill reaches the Senate. I would be much fairer to obtain the needed revenue, in so far as may be practical, by restoring the surtax rates on individual incomes which were originally voted by the House. If the Senate acts in the interest of the country as a whole, that is what it will do. A bill stands, it lets off super-wealth with a light tax, but bears down heavily in the middle brackets upon salary people, the professional and teaching classes, and business executives. The would, in proportion to their income, pay more than anyone else.

The Senate can again equalize the tax bill by omitting the more flagrant instances of double taxation and by restoring the high surtaxes in the upper brackets. If England can make the income tax yield more than a billion dollars, including $380,000,000 from surtaxes, just how convincing it is to say that our own country, in which there is immensely more super-wealth, can not do so?

over at the power plant at Corinth and he's getting fifty dollars a week and I'm going to take Miss Brant's place at the library and I'll get twenty, so with that we can manage beautifully. We're going to live with his father and mother for a while. They're fixing an apartment on the third floor.

"Can you come down for the wedding? Phil says he'd like Gar to stand up with him and of course I want you. It's going to be very simple, just here at the house, and we plan now that it will be in March or April. I'll write to you the moment we've decided."

Kitty glowed and laughed over the letter. Practical Sally, putting her happiness in such a matter-of-fact way.

Of course she and Gar would go to the wedding.

She called Gar on the telephone to give him the news. But Gar was not in his office. Old Jonathan told her that Gar would not be in until four o'clock.

Probably, Kitty excited, he was out, somewhere, "turning" his cool thousand! She compared it, complacently, with Phil Corey's plodding.

The crisp winter's afternoon invited her out for a walk. Within a few blocks of Ketchum Street she yielded to a sudden impulse to hunt David out.

He answered her ring, hesitating a moment before he admitted her. But she knew by the swift lighting of his face that he was glad to see her.

"You've timed your coming by some magic," he told her. He indicated a thick flat package on his table. "There it is, ready for its fate."

"Oh, David, we'll celebrate! Let's have tea at that little place where we went before. David, when it's out, won't it show them?"

He knew what she meant. He shook his head. "That was my trouble. I was working for that end, you see, and I was down a blind alley. I got out of it. I don't care if they never see it. I finished it to get a better opinion of myself. And now it's done maybe I won't need the scorn of a certain blue-eyed lady I know to stiffen my back-bone."

His statement, put simply, moved Kitty curiously. She felt rebuked and unaccountably elated all at the same moment. "I don't think I ever was scornful about you, David!" she denied quickly. And then she laughed, the color flooding her face. She was taking a great deal to herself! Dorcas' eyes were blue.

"But, David, I'm glad for you! 'Jungle.' I can see it on the bookstands."

He agreed that they'd celebrate. He was in a gay mood.

They drank several cups of tea and ate innumerable sandwiches.

She told him about her letter from Sally and laughed as she pictured for him Sally and Phil, the unromantics.

"I'm going to have a good talk with Sally. I must warn her not to take everything so seriously." Kitty assumed a very experienced and much-married manner. "I've found that out."

She gave a little laugh. "David, haven't I changed a lot since that first night we met?"

He considered, without any answer, the bright face opposite him.

"I can see, myself, just how I've changed," she pursued, rather liking the review. "I must have seemed very young to you at first."

"You were a kid—and a very lonely one at that," David agreed gravely.

"And you were so nice to me. You said then that I must be patient with Gar. And something about my standing on my two feet."

"Well, I didn't do either the one thing or the other. The first clash we had I got crazy and rushed away from Gar, went to you—"

"You call it crazy, now?"

"Oh, yes, David. I wasn't patient. And I didn't stand on my two feet at all; I leaned most awfully on you!"

"You are disillusioning me. I thought you were rather a wonder!"

"Oh, I wasn't anything of the sort. Now I'm adapting myself. And isn't that the way it should be?"

"Do you want my honest opinion?"

"Of course," she challenged.

"I liked the you you were when you were living on Ketchum Street. There was something rather fine about you. I thought you were going to be—"

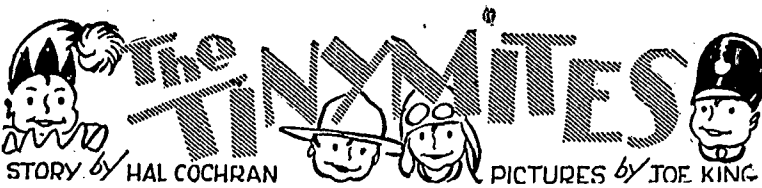

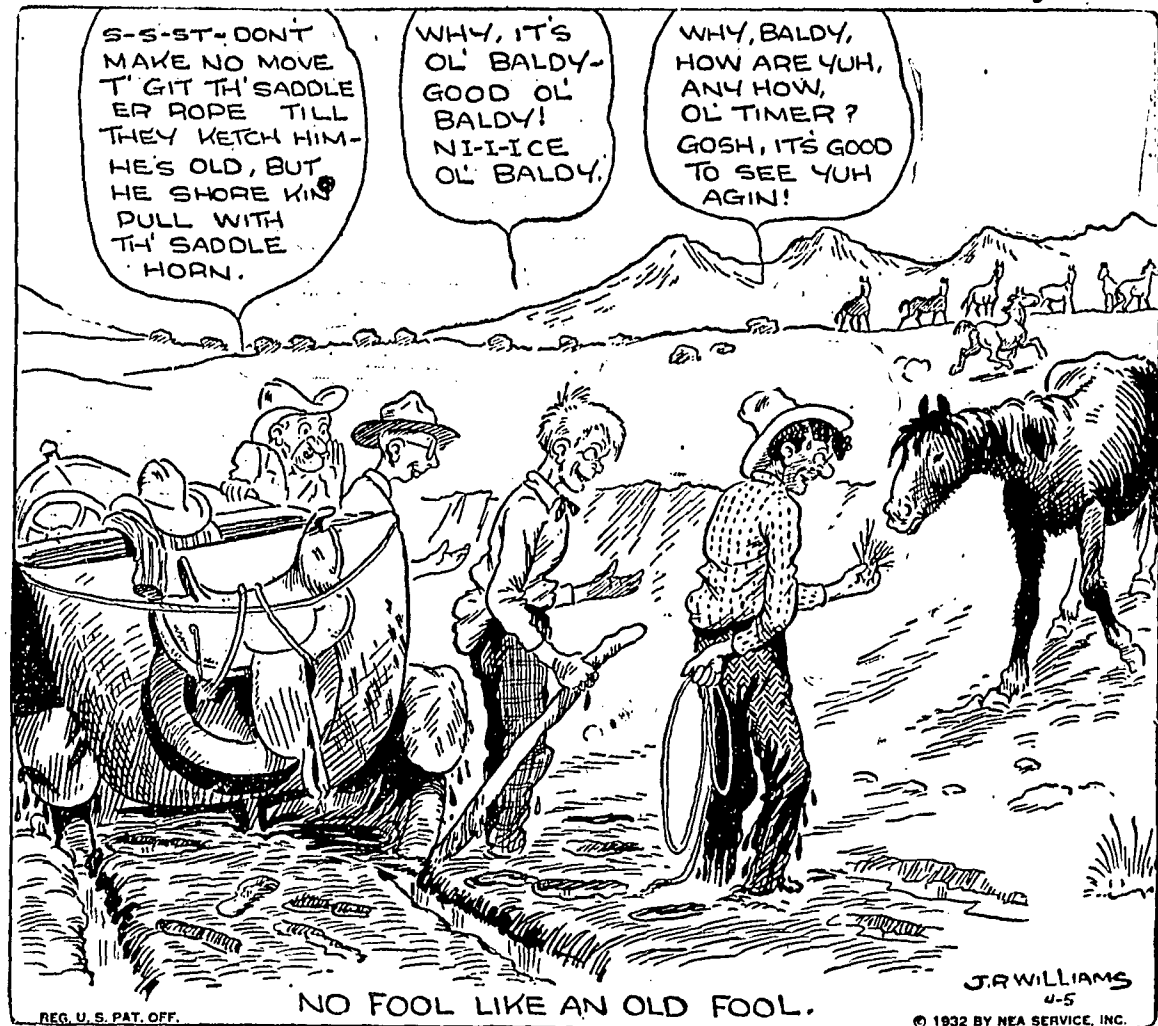

"I finished, bringing his brows together over a little doubt, then finished inadequately, 'different.'"

"Oh, David, and I was so unhappy then!" She, in her turn, stopped confused, a little angry.

"It's that you think just of me and

OUT OUR WAY

By Williams

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

THE note the Tinymites had read was strange and Scouty promptly said, "Well, let's start blowing bubbles. There's a chance the note is right."

"Whoever blows the 'biggest' one is bound to have a lot of fun, 'cause that's the bubble that is going to bring a thrilling sight."

Soon bubbles floated all 'round. They'd drop and burst upon the ground. Not one of them was very big and Duncy said, "Aw, gee! Just how long is it going to take to make a big one? They all break! I've blown so many now that I'm as winded as can be."

"Just keep it up," cried Scouty. "You must do the best that you can do and trust to luck! I'm sure that we will win out, after while."

JUST then another Tiny said, "Hey! One went smack, right on my head. It made my hat all wet." This made the other Tiny smile.

For 'bout a half an hour they tried, but nothing happened.

not of me and Gar," she protested sharply.

He did not look at her. He nodded his head. "Exactly, I prefer to think of you and not of you and Gar."

"Well, it can't be done." She managed an untruffled tone. "Gar and I are indissolubly one." She had an irresistible desire to flaunt her security. "I'm sorry if you're disappointed in me, she finished archly.

"Did I call it that? I'm interested, notwithstanding—"

"Will I make copy for your next book? There will be a next, won't there?"

"Perhaps," he answered noncommittably.

She was afraid he was shutting a door on her. "What does Dorcas say now that you've finished 'Jungle'?"

"She doesn't know."

"Oh, David, you're the limit. You're hopeless." Kitty laughed in exasperation. He was too incurably sensitive; he wouldn't tell Dorcas until he knew the manuscript was sold.

David walked with her a part of the way back to the Tudor Arms. Kitty was thinking what a pleasant afternoon they had had together.

Windy cried, "I think I have a happy lunch. We're blowing much too fast."

"These funny bubbles are real thin and when we puff the warm air in, the bubbles cannot stand it. That's the reason they won't last."

"I'm going to try it rather slow. Now, watch me, lads, 'cause here I go." Then Windy blew a large one. "That's a dandy," Scouty cried.

"AND look! Do you see what I see, or am I dizzy as can be?" "I see it, too," said Copy.

"There's a funny man inside."

"Keep blowing hard," another said. "The more you make the bubble spread, the larger our new friend will be. Say, isn't he a sight?"

"I guess that he's good-natured, too. But we'll find out before we're through. At least, he is a sudden thrill! Our little note was right."

(The Tinymites' funny man comes to life in the next story.)

They had turned into the street that led past the Crosby house. It stood now, in the dusk, a shadowy pile of granite with oblongs of mellow light suggesting luxurious warmth and comfort within.

An asphalt drive curved to its wide entrance. A roadster waited on the drive.

"Why—" the little word escaped Kitty. It was Gar's car. She walked along for a moment in silence.

Then: "Gar has to stop at Marge's often. They're planning the next play you see." Her head went up, her square little chin set determinedly. She was answering herself, for David had said nothing.

Gar's criticism causes Kitty to take reckless steps, tomorrow.

20 Looking Back Twenty Years 20

A large number of boys over the county have enrolled for the corn growing contest to be held in Maryville next fall. According to present indications about 1,000 boys will compete for prizes in this contest.

Work on the postoffice building for Maryville, to be located on the lots at the corner of Fifth and Main streets, will commence either the latter part of the week or the first of next week.

F. D. Krenz of Minneapolis, Minn., who will have charge of the work and will be foreman, arrived Monday evening and will remain until the building is completed. The building is to be finished according to contract by April 1, 1933.

Hyde Praises Hoover.

Kansas City, April 5.—(AP)—President Hoover was praised as the only man "in the whole world with a constructive program," by Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture, in an interview here last night. Hyde predicted the president would be re-elected. Referring to the war debt moratorium and work for extension of credit, Hyde asserted "every last one of these moves was designed to help the little fellow, not the big fellow."

Says Farm Board Wheat Stocks Are Threat to Prices

Washington, April 5.—(AP)—The director of the American Cotton Shippers Association today told a Senate committee that the farm board wheat and cotton stocks were a continual threat to prices. The witness, J. M. Locke, of Muskogee, Okla., told a Senate agriculture subcommittee that "few investors will come into a market with a government warehouse in control of large stocks of cotton."

He advocated passage of bills by Senator Gore (D., Okla.), which provide that the board cannot dispose of any of its wheat and cotton stocks prior to January 1, 1933.

The measures provide for limited monthly sales after that time, unless the price of cotton goes to 15 cents and that of wheat to 81 cents. Then, the entire wheat and cotton stock could be disposed of.

was attempting to break up the cooperative movement but severely criticized farm board policies which he resulted in the board's acquiring approximately 11,300,000 bales of cotton and about 150,000,000 bushels of wheat in an attempt to stabilize prices.

Locke in answer to a question by Senator Gore said the American cotton farmers were diminishing and blamed the Farm Board for "most of it."

For a number of years, he said, foreign buyers had viewed with "alarm and fear" the "interference of the government in the cotton business."

This was true, he said, even before the Farm Board was set up. He cited regulations as to cotton grades which he said were forced on foreign buyers.

Grain Recedes Slightly From Recent Bulges

Chicago, Apr. 5.—(AP)—Grain values receded today from bulges that in the last few days had carried wheat up six cents over last week's low point.

Indications of a possible break in the drought which has prevailed over domestic winter wheat territory had a bearish effect, combined with unsteadiness of securities. Besides, transatlantic demand for wheat from North America was disappointing, although some business was done both by the United States and Canada.

Wheat closed nervous, 7 1/2c to 1 1/2c under yesterday's finish, corn 3/4c to 1/2c down, oats unchanged to 1/2c off, and provisions unchanged to 1/2c lower.

Chicago, April 5.—(AP)—Influenced by New York stock market downturns and by relative weakness of wheat quotations at Liverpool, grain prices suffered a material setback early today. Forecasts of showers in Nebraska counted also as a bearish factor. Opening 3/4c to 1 1/2c off, Chicago wheat futures held near the initial range. Corn started at 1/4c to 1/2c decline and continued to sag.

Acting as a curb on wheat price declines was continued dry weather throughout most of the winter crop belt west and southwest. Crop damage complaints from Kansas included reports of wheat fields which had been thinned 50 per cent and which if unimproved within a week would be plowed up and be replanted with corn. Other advices from Kansas said wheat was not as responsive as it should be to growing weather, and that apparently damage was irreparable.

Reports of some plowing up of wheat in Texas were received from Fort Worth. A summary of messages from various points said bad crop conditions were shown in the western third of Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska, but that this was territory where the trade had not been expecting much of a yield anyway. It was added that good general rains would change the picture materially. Corn and oats reflected downturns in wheat.

Provisions went lower with hog values.

Stock Market.

New York, Apr. 5.—(AP)—The stock market slumped sharply to a weak closing today, although volume was moderate. Absence of buying support was noted, and a noticeable fall in rails and utilities. Santa Fe and Norfolk & Western dropped more than half a dozen points and Union Pacific was off 5. American Telephone broke to a new low, off nearly 5 at the worst, while Allied Chemical, U. S. Steel, American Can, Coca Cola, Eastman and Consolidated Gas lost 3 to 4. Peoples Gas tumbled 8. Transactions approximated 1,400,000 shares.

Hoover Answers Critics of Plan to Cut Expenses

Says Joint Congressional-Administration Action Would Get Results.

Has Three Suggestions

President Urges Consolidations, Direct Cuts in Appropriations, and Changes in Laws.

Washington, April 5.—(P)—Answering congressional attacks upon his economy suggestions, President Hoover said today that without the creation of a joint congressional-administration committee to consider the question he could "see no way by which there can be a maximum reduction in expenditures."

Only a short while before, Speaker Garner had told newspapermen that if the president sent to the Capitol specific suggestions for cutting federal cash outlays, the house would approve them and do it quickly.

Mr. Hoover, at his semi-weekly press conference, outlined "three general directions" in which he believes federal expenses may be reduced by as much as $200,000,000 in an effort to balance the budget in conjunction with the new tax bill.

Again Urges Consolidation.

Referring to one of these, reorganization and consolidation of government functions, he asserted he had recommended such a step seven distinct times but that "the action recommended has not been taken."

The other two directions were direct reduction of appropriations and alteration of existing laws to reduce present unnecessary functions.

In the Senate, Chairman Jones of the appropriations committee introduced legislation to carry out the present suggestion for a commission to go into the question.

Speaker Garner, in guaranteeing house action on specific administration proposals, said "if Mr. Hoover has nothing to recommend, that is a different matter and it is mighty late in the session for him to try to get anything done through a commission."

Has Three Suggestions

The President's statement follows in part:

"What I asked for was organized non-partisan cooperation by all forces to reduce government expenses in the national emergency which insistently demands relief for the taxpayer."

"There are three general directions in which expenses can be reduced. "First: The direct reduction of appropriations."

"A definite program to this end was placed before congress in the executive budget proposals, in which there was a reduction of $369,000,000 for the forthcoming year. I welcome further cuts providing such reductions do not destroy essential functions, and that they are genuine and do not merely represent postponed appropriations until deficiency bills next December."

"Second: There are a large number of expenditures within the bureau and departments which cannot be reduced without a change in the laws so that the executive or the appropriations committees can reduce such expenditures."

"Seven departments alone have pointed out over 85 such different directions for consideration of those committees and which offer a possibility of very large reductions."

Must Eliminate Waste.

"Third: Those directions of economy which can only be accomplished by reorganization and consolidation of government functions so as to eliminate overlap, useless bureaus and commissions and waste."

Maryville boys interested in taking part in the American Legion junior baseball league this summer are requested to meet at 7 o'clock Wednesday night at the Armory. George Hansen, of the Legion's baseball committee, announced today.

German Official Hurls Charges at Hitler's Party

"Nazis" Have Extensive Spy System, Minister of Interior Declares.

Berlin, April 5.—(P)—Karl Severing, minister of the interior who ordered the dramatic raids last month on meeting places of Adolf Hitler's national socialist party, announced today that documents seized in those raids indicated the "Nazis" had one of the most extensive espionage systems he ever saw.

It was a political bombshell in the heated pre-election atmosphere, for it intimated if Hitler had won the first presidential election on March 13 the country would now be in the midst of a civil war.

One party order issued by the intelligence service in February, he said, directed that the espionage branch "must extend to every activity of friendly or sympathizing organizations; to the activities of the state and all its organs, especially the police and the army."

Had Secret Documents.

The material confiscated, said the minister, included many confidential government documents which could not have fallen into the hands of the Nazis except by violation of the oath of office on the part of those to whom the documents originally were entrusted.

There was, for instance, "Order No. 45" which Dr. Severing said had been found at Essen. It demanded information on the police, school teachers, the clergy, the railway service, bus services and the activities of Free Masons and Jews.

Many times, the minister said, secret communist orders were circulated among subordinate leaders of the Nazis with instructions that they be used as object lessons. Handbills written on the communists model were circulated among the police, inciting them to disobedience. Among the services specially spied upon, said Dr. Severing, were air-roads, the telegraph and telephone systems and radio stations.

Pendergast Faction in Springfield Loses in Scrap Last Night

Springfield, Mo., April 5.—(P)—Thomas J. Pendergast, the Kansas City Democratic leader, lost a party scrap here last night.

In a stirring contest for control of the Greene County Women's Democratic Club, the faction that supported Mrs. Ethel Martin, of Springfield, for delegate-at-large to the National Convention at the State Convention in St. Louis last week, overwhelmed a faction considered more friendly to the Kansas City chieftain.

The Pendergast forces rejected Mrs. Martin as a delegate.

Mrs. W. N. Doss, a member of the Springfield election board, was elected president. Her election was opposed by Mrs. Pope G. Myers, a member of the Democratic State Committee.

James Lucas Is Candidate For Nomination For Sheriff

James W. Lucas of Barnard filed yesterday with Fred Wright, county clerk his declaration as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for sheriff, subject to the August primaries.

Mr. Lucas formerly was a member of the Grant township board and last year had charge of road maintenance in Grant township.

Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Ferguson of St. Joseph were in Maryville Saturday.

Sec. Stimson to Geneva Sails Friday For Armaments Conference.

Washington, April 5.—(P)—Tolmo Araujo, who believes he saw Col. P. H. Fawcett, "lost" English explorer, in the Brazilian jungle about 1927, today said the Colonel may be a voluntary exile from civilization.

A meeting in the jungle with an Englishman who said he was "not going back" to civilization was described by Araujo, son of a Brazilian rubber exporter and now a resident of Washington.

The region where he says he met the mysterious white man is near that in which Stephen Rattin, a Swiss trapper, recently reported meeting Fawcett and receiving from him a message asking to be rescued from "Indian captivity."

Encounters A Bearded Man
Araujo said he led an expedition in 1925 into the Matto Grosso jungle looking for rubber. One day Araujo became lost while traveling alone.

"One afternoon I was walking through the jungle," he said, "when I saw a white man coming toward me. When he saw me he stood still and waited for me to approach. He was about 50 years old, of medium height, blond, a touch of gray in his hair, with blue eyes and a long beard such as all white men grow in the jungle. His khaki shorts were tattered, his shirt falling to pieces, and on his feet were native rubber shoes."

"I went up to him and asked him who he was and if he was lost."

"I am an Englishman," he said, "and I am not lost."

"I asked him whether there was a town nearby where he lived. He told me he lived with Indians at a place about ten days away from that spot, but he would not tell me what Indians or in what direction his camp lay."

Agrees With Indian's Stories
"I said to him, 'don't you want ever to go back to your home?' and he said, 'never, I hate that life.'"

"I looked straight at him and said: 'are you Col. Fawcett?'"

"Never mind about that," he replied. "I am not going back." He carried no gun but was armed with a belt knife.

Later "he got up and walked away in the jungle. I saw he wanted no one to follow him, so I, too, went my way."

"Returning to Manaus, I told my story, and everyone there said the native rumors exactly agreed with it; that the Indians believed Fawcett never wanted to reach home again."

Fawcett disappeared in the Matto Grosso region, a vast unexplored jungle area of Brazil, seven years ago. It was generally believed he was lost in the jungle or killed by Indians.

Judge Henwood Will Not Be Candidate For Re-Election to Court

Jefferson City, April 5.—(P)—Judge Berrynan Henwood of the Missouri Supreme Court announced today he will not be a candidate for another term and will return to the practice of law when his term expires Dec. 31, next. Judge Henwood is a Republican.

Judge Henwood was appointed to the Supreme Court by Gov. Caulfield Nov. 25, 1930, succeeding the late Judge Robert F. Walker of St. Louis. His home is in Hannibal.

Judge Henwood, who was born in Hannibal April 23, 1881, practiced law there from 1904, when he was graduated from the University of Missouri, until 1927, when he was appointed a Commissioner of the Supreme Court, in which position he served until Gov. Caulfield appointed him a judge.

Judge Henwood has taken an active part in Republican politics for many years. He was city attorney of Hannibal from 1909 to 1913, a member of the State Republican Committee from 1912 to 1916, and was a delegate to the Republican National Convention in 1916, serving as Missouri's member of the resolutions committee.

British Government Pays Last Part of $200,000,000 Credit

New York, Apr. 5.—(P)—J. P. Morgan & Co., is mailing checks totaling $20,000,000 to 110 American banks today.

The payment is being made by the Morgan firm as the fiscal agent in this country of the British government. It will wipe out the $200,000,000 banking credit obtained last August in Britain's futile effort to avoid being pushed off the gold standard.

The credit was arranged to run for a year, but, as a result of recent improvement in Britain's financial condition, she has been able to extinguish her indebtedness four months in advance of maturity.

New York bankers say the repayment sets something of a record in international finance. About six months ago, the finances of the British government were shaken to a point where a complete breakdown seemed possible.

The crisis was met successfully, and in a short time the British government had pulled itself out of the muck. Its budget is now balanced.

Harvey Hollar of Kearney was a week-end visitor in Maryville. He is a former student of the college.

Election Day Is Passing Quietly in This County

All School Districts Are Voting For One or More Directors.

Voting Here Is Light

112 Votes Had Been Cast At 2 O'Clock; Levy Is Expected to Pass—Polls Close at 6 O'Clock.

Election day in Nodaway county went off comparatively quietly today although there has been some discussion over the county as to the levy. All the school districts, both rural and city, voted for one or more directors and for a levy if it were needed.

In Maryville the citizens voted only on the school election, while the other towns voted both for school directors and also for members of the town board.

Some manifestation was evident against the levy, but it seemed certain of passage, as of 112 votes counted at 2 o'clock today, the vote was 88 to 25. Only a majority vote is necessary. The total vote cast in Maryville at 2 o'clock was 122.

J. O. Miller and Victor Fields the two candidates for the school board, had no opposition.

The polls close here at 6 o'clock tonight.

Rural Districts Vote.
Rural school districts held their annual meetings at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the respective school houses, where the residents voted on the levy and generally for one director.

In Hopkins in the town election there was only two contests, for marshal and collector. There were a variety of tickets in the field. Mrs. Ada Pettijohn was a candidate on four tickets—peoples, city, independent and citizens—for collector, while Miss Pearl Kennedy was candidate on the progressive ticket.

For marshal Art Bonar was a candidate on the city ticket; Walter Thompson on the peoples ticket; Leonard Whitten on the citizens ticket and Willis Browning on the independent ticket.

The other candidates at Hopkins had no opposition.

F. L. Rickard was candidate for mayor to succeed Dr. C. W. Kirk; James George was candidate for police judge; Dr. E. A. Miller was candidate in the first ward and Wren Peve in the second ward for alderman. Irvin Hanna and Frank Litsch had no opposition for the school board.

Vote on Free Books.
The citizens of Burlington Junction are voting today on the school levy and the question of free text books as well as choosing two board members to serve terms of three years. Candidates for the board, nominated last night at a mass meeting are E. S. Harrison, John Wagner, Earl Horn, Joe Williams and Mrs. Les Miller.

In today's election at Parnell two school directors are to be elected to serve terms of three years. An issue is a levy of 40 cents on the one hundred dollars valuation for the teachers' fund, in addition to the amount authorized by law, which is 20 cents, and for a levy of 10 cents on the one hundred dollars valuation for the incidental fund. This is a reduction of five cents on the $100 valuation from last year.

Convict, "Tired of Being Shut Up," Sets Chapel Afire

Joliet, Ill., April 5.—(P)—An old and trusted convict "tired of being shut up" and reverting to a pyromaniacal urge today set fire to the stone chapel in the state penitentiary. Joliet fire companies and 300 convicts put out the blaze which resulted in damage estimated at $5,000.

Lyman Hall, a convict since 1897 and a trusty most of the time since 1919, walked into the deputy warden's office in the old prison this morning and calmly announced: "I'm tired of the world, I'm tired of being shut up. I just set fire to the chapel and I hope the whole place burns up."

Guards rushed to the chapel and found the inner walls and the floors ablaze. It was a half hour before the fire department and a detail of prisoners had it under control. There was no disorder among the prisoners.

Hall was sentenced from Will county in 1897 for the murder of Constable Francis DeLong.

MANY HORSES DIE

Ravenous Animals Swallow Sand While Cropping Short Stands of Rye

Norfolk, Neb., April 5.—(P)—Horses were dying today in drought stricken Pierce and Antelope counties from eating sand as they grazed closely cropped fields of rye. The animals were reported ravenous because of lack of forage. A post mortem on one disclosed two quarts of sand in its stomach.

I. O. O. F. Lodge Building Burns

Chaffee, Mo., April 5.—(P)—Fire of unknown origin last night destroyed the I. O. O. F. lodge building here with damage estimated at $20,000.

To Veto Filipino Bill? Measure Granting Independence May Hit Snag.

Washington, April 5.—(P)—A veto apparently waits at the White House for legislation to grant independence to the Philippine Islands.

The Hare bill under which independence would come after eight or ten years, passed the House yesterday. Later this session this bill or a substitute for it will be taken up in the Senate, with fair chances of passage. It may, therefore, be up to the president to meet this long-standing issue. The two members of his cabinet most concerned in the question, are definitely and sharply opposed.

The House action followed reading of a letter from Secretary Stimson in which turning loose the islands was condemned strongly. It preceded by a short time a jaunt: "Just giving President Hoover something else to veto," uttered by Secretary Hurley.

Tokyo, April 5.—(P)—Possession or domination of the Philippines "would be as great a liability to Japan as it has been to the United States," a government spokesman said today.

The spokesman expressed the belief that the Japanese government would willingly enter into a treaty with America perpetually guaranteeing the neutrality and independence of the islands in the event they gain their freedom.

Defense Loses First Round in Massie Hearing

Darrow Fails to Prevent Seating of Juror He Holds Is Biased.

BULLETIN

Honolulu, Apr. 5.—(P)—Intense feeling against the four defendants in the Kahahawai murder case was expressed today by William Hulihui, Hawaiian and prospective jurymen, who admitted he had said he thought the defendants "ought to be shot." Hulihui was being questioned by Clarence Darrow, chief defense counsel.

Honolulu, April 5.—(P)—An early legal skirmish in the trial of the sensational Kahahawai murder case lost to a youthful assistant prosecutor, the veteran Clarence Darrow, noted criminal lawyer, returned today to the task of selecting a jury from panels composed of a medley of races.

A dramatic clash between Darrow, bent with age and slowly patient, and relentless young Barry S. Ulrich ended in victory for the assistant prosecutor and the seating of a juror Darrow tried to show was biased.

Shortly before that court fight, the 74-year-old Chicagoan lost a point to John C. Kelley, newly appointed public prosecutor, when the court ruled that whether Joseph Kahahawai was innocent or guilty of an assault upon Mrs. Thalia Massie had no bearing on the case.

Four Are On Trial
Mrs. Massie's mother and husband, with two sailors, are on trial for killing the young Hawaiian. The mother, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, sat during the first day of the trial on the same bench as Kahahawai's father, mother and sister.

Nearby, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie bit his lips as he watched Darrow carefully sift the minds of the jurors.

Darrow's persistence in questioning venemore aroused the ire of Ulrich early. The assistant prosecutor shouted angrily "the defense counsel is putting words in the juror's mouth," when the gray haired leader of the defense continued, despite objections, in his efforts to show Henry Beckley, Hawaiian, had already formed an opinion.

Circuit Judge Charles S. Davis permitted the veteran "defender" to continue his penetrating questioning. But Darrow's triumph lasted no longer than his examination of Beckley.

Today Beckley was, as Ulrich wished, among the six tentative jurors—two Chinese, two Americans, a Japanese and a Hawaiian.

Two Billion Dollar Corporation to Aid Agriculture Proposed

Washington, Apr. 5.—(P)—Creation of a $2,000,000,000 corporation, similar to the reconstruction corporation, for loans to refinance agriculture was proposed in a bill introduced today by Senator Wheeler (D, Montana).

Speak at Faculty Meeting.
Miss Ruth Lowery, Herbert K. Dietrich, and Dr. J. W. Hake were the speakers at a special meeting of the College faculty last night at the administration building. The subject under discussion was "Significant Changes in the Curriculum of the Secondary School." President Uel W. Lamkin presided. This is one of a series of faculty meetings being held for the discussion of college curriculum.

Winter to Take Prohibition Stand

St. Louis, April 5.—(P)—Lieut.-Gov. Edward H. Winter, candidate for the republican nomination for governor, told a group of St. Louis Republican leaders at a conference here yesterday that he would make a declaration on the prohibition issue after the party's state convention next Tuesday. Former Mayor Henry W. Kiel, Edmund Koeln and John S. Leahy were the St. Louisans who conferred with Lieut.-Gov. Winter.

Dies From a Mule's Kick.
Mexico, Mo., April 5.—(P)—Injuries suffered when a mule kicked him Thursday caused the death of Raymond Smith, 18, at a hospital here yesterday.

500 Rural School Pupils Will Sing in Chorus Here

Third Annual Music Festival Will Be Held at College Saturday.

Basket Dinner Planned

Children Will Have Lunch in College Park If Weather Permits—Full Program Is Arranged.

The third annual Nodaway county grade school music festival, known in past years as the Nodaway county chorus, will be given Saturday afternoon in the auditorium of the College. W. H. Burr, county superintendent of schools, announced today. Approximately 500 rural school students from forty-seven schools will participate in the festival.

The pupils will meet at 10 o'clock in the morning for a rehearsal, and the program, which is open to the public, will be given at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Mr. Burr is manager of the event and Charles Gardner is director.

Miller Will Conduct.
Edson Miller, student at the Teachers College, will conduct the chorus and Donald Johnson, College student, will be the accompanist.

They will be assisted in the program by Irene Heideman, violinist; Barbara Gray, pianist; Bobbie Curfman, violinist; and Beatrice Leeson, pianist.

The teachers of the schools which will participate in the county chorus are requested by Mr. Burr to register the names of the children taking part at the College in the morning. If weather permits there will be a basket dinner at the College park at noon. Check rooms will be provided for the 500 pupils at the College. Schools may be entered until Saturday morning.

The pupils have been practicing the songs that will be sung Saturday during the year by the aid of phonograph records.

Program Is Arranged.
The program to be given is as follows: Address of welcome by William Burr. "Bendemeers Stream," "Billy Boy," both by chorus.

"Chant Adieu" (Lagye) by Irene Heideman.

"Blow the Man Down," "Sweet Kitty Clover," both by chorus.

"Music Box," (Heins), by Barbara Gray.

"Fiddle-de-de," "Sourwood Mountain," "Spanish Guitar," by chorus.

Entr' Acte Gavotte from Mignon (Thomas), by Bobbie Curfman.

"My Banjo," "The Dairymaids," by chorus.

Gavotte (Lemont), by Beatrice Leeson.

"The Postillon," by the chorus.

List of Schools.
The schools taking part and the teachers of the schools are as follows: Bloomfield, Miss Mildred Young; Baker, Miss Gertrude Young; Wilcox, Miss Alma Finney; Pleasant View, Miss Myrtle Cray; Martha Washington, Mrs. Roy Schrader; Scudder, L. L.
